SUNNY SQUIBBLETS

It is not true that the young men have no discrimination, as they are very keen in picking out the best lookers among the girls.

There is no presidential candidates have been dining together, but it is not reported that this increased their appetite any.

Tremendous enrollment at the colleges, but no one is reporting that he is selling any more oil or electricity for night study.

Victims of Three Auto Accidents are Improving

Rumors to the effect that Truman Wheeler, who was seriously injured in one of the automobile accidents that occurred at the fork of the East Burke and West Burke roads just north of Lyndonville, late Monday night, had died as a result of the injuries he received, were denied at Brightlook Hospital in St. Johnsbury today.

A Caledonian-Record reporter investigated the report that had been spread about town that Mr. Wheeler had passed away on Wednesday evening and received the following answer from the nurse in charge at the hospital:

"Mr. Wheeler is not dead. His condition is improving, but of course very slowly. He passed a fairly comfortable night. Chances for his recovery are a great deal more favorable now than we expected when he was first brought here."

Word received from Lyndonville today announced that the other victims of the double accident were improving rapidly. A report had been circulated widely that Ira Hunter whose car ran into a guy wire from an electric light pole (instead of a telephone pole as was reported in the Caledonian-Record's story on Tuesday) had one of his eyes gouged out, and the other badly injured in the accident. This was untrue. Mr. Hunter did suffer severe bruises of both eyes and the optics were blacked up considerably, but physician say he will not lose the sight of either.

Mrs. Mary Belden, who was also riding in the Hunter car, and who was slightly injured, was feeling quite comfortable today. Joseph Sherer, who was riding with Bruce Wakefield and three other men, broke his arm in two places. The bones were set by Dr. Brown and he is getting along very nicely.

It was also announced at the hospital today that C. O. Parker and A. W. Marsh of Littleton, N. H., who miraculously escaped being killed when their automobile plunged down a steep embankment on the Blodgett turn about a mile outside of the village limits of St. Johnsbury, were improving. Parker, who was the most seriously injured, spent a rather restful night but his condition was better this morning.

World Series Baseball Extra Scored a Hit

"Great work, Smithy, they never got out a better baseball extra than that in Boston or any other city."

That was the comment of Walter Hapgood, business manager of the Boston Braves yesterday when he saw the Caledonian-Record World Series baseball extra at the Campus during the second inning of the Braves-Fairbanks game.

The publisher of the Caledonian-Record and "Hap" as he is known in baseball and newspaper circles, worked together on the Worcester Telegram and five years on the Boston Herald. Hapgood is a newspaperman of 25 years' experience and a tribute like this from a veteran newspaperman is worth repeating.

A direct wire from the Boston office of the Associated Press brought the play by play report of the big game at Brooklyn direct to the Caledonian-Record office within a minute after the play actually occurred on Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. This report coming by being sent to our typesetting machines and in less than five minutes after the game was over the Caledonian-Record press was grinding out its extra headed "Cleveland Wins" and the story of the game as complete as to actual plays as the Boston daily papers which arrived before noon today. 20 hours after our paper had been circulated and sold to the 500 pleased readers at the Campus.

When it comes to getting News, getting it first and telling it in readable form, you can depend upon the Caledonian-Record.

Sustains Verdict on the Williams Case

The Vermont Supreme Court has sustained the verdict in the case of Frank C. Williams of Newport. He was charged with malfeasance in office and Justice L. P. Slack in reading the lengthy opinion stated judgment was that there was no error in the proceedings below, that the respondent takes nothing by his exceptions, "let execution be done."

In the lower court Mr. Williams was fined $500 and costs, having been found guilty of the offenses with which he is charged.

Justice Slack in writing his opinion went into detail upon the 30 odd exceptions that the defendant took to the admission of evidence, or the refusal of the court to allow certain evidence to be admitted, as the case might be.

He gave a history of the case and ruled that the statute of limitation did not apply, therefore evidence showing shortage before that time was admissible. He defined closely the difference between wilful neglect and common neglect and common neglect and went on to show that after the matter was called to the bank commissioner's attention, in 1913, that there should have been no neglect in the effort of the commissioner. He took up the testimony of the different witnesses, showing their bearing upon the evidence as introduced in the case, saying that this evidence was admissible; that the books used by Mr. Pratt were memoranda and that they could be used to refresh his memory that the reports were good evidence because they were Vermont public documents; that when certain outstanding orders were called to his attention it became his duty to investigate and it was one of his duties to make a true report of conditions and that an honest report should be made by him of the condition of the accounts in the office.

Lyndonville Girl Wins State Spelling Match

The feature of the opening day of the Vermont State Teachers' Association at Burlington Wednesday was the spelling contest in which 20 young people from 11 counties participated. The silver loving cup offered by the State Board of Education to the pupil winning the contest was captured by Miss Lucile Hartwell, 13 years of age, of Lyndonville, who stayed in the contest until all the others had been spelled down.

Among those from this vicinity participating in the contest were Adelaide Humphrey of Newport, Hazel Miles of Ira-burg, Thelma Hazen of St. Johnsbury.

It was a hard fought contest and lasted about an hour and a half, in order to eliminate the last four contestants, it was necessary to resort to words outside the regular list which had been prepared. The words which finally "floored" the four closest contestants for the spelling championship were "enthusiasm", "irreparable", "raincoat" and "kimono". The fact that this last word came to a boy may explain some things.

Eastern Star Hold District Meeting at St. J.

 and the Grand Officers and others followed with short addresses. Diamond Chapter, No. 14, had charge of the closing exercises with Mrs. Marion E. Adams, Worthy Matron, and Harvey Burbank, Worthy Patron.

One of the most interesting features of the evening was the drill, Addenda, the Mystic Tie, presented by 24 members of the Evening Star Chapter. This was splendidly done and received much applause from the audience.

The district meeting was one of the most enjoyable and profitable ever held by the members and the visiting chapters and guests of home were enthusiastic in their praises of the hospitality of the St. Johnsbury chapter.
